REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance. The prior art made of record in the attached form PTO-892 considered to be pertinent to the submitted application.

Nagamine et al. US # 4,484,286 disclose a numerical control system for executing numerical control processing on the bases of command program and for actuating a machine in accordance with the results of the processing steps to machine a workpiece in the manner specified by the instructions in the command program. The plurality of system variables that represent the variety of operational conditions of the machine or numerical control device. The command program is programmed to include a user macro call instruction. Wherein the prescribed user macro is read out from the memory by means of user macro call instruction, thereby to allow processing in accordance with user macro. It is possible to execute processing upon reading out input/output interface signals.

Niwa et al. US # 4,608,645 disclose a numerical control system for a machine tool with a tool dimension compensation function. Wherein numerical controllers associated with machine tool are respectively coupled to auxiliary controllers communicating with host computer. Each auxiliary controller has a memory for storing revision values, which respectively correspond to primary and spare tools being stored in a tool magazine of the associated machine tool. When a spare tool is attached to a tool spindle of the associated machine tool in place of a primary tool, each auxiliary controller reads out a corresponding revision value from the memory and transfers it to the associated numerical controller.

However, none of the prior art teaches or suggest in combination:

- An arbitrary organized database that includes a supplementary data and database access commands in the machining program interpreted by an interpreter unit used to retrieve supplementary data from the database for further workpiece machining.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
